Managing Board of UN Correspondents

UNCAV sees itself as an independent organization not committed to any political, religious or economic institutions, acting as a peoples' union in the spirit of the UN and internationally linked. The Association of UN Correspondents in Vienna was founded in 1985, with the current seat in the UNO-City / Vienna International Center (VIC).

Today the organization has more than 150 members from different countries and continents, managed by the Board and President Abdalla Sharief and his Vice President Josef Siegele. Wötzl comments on his new function: "In addition to my regional and national activities, the international events will also be the focus of my work in the future. That also results in close cooperation with other UN correspondents."
