

ECEXA - ICGSI Rwanda - sign agreement

Rwanda has overcome its past. Today, it is one of the most stable, secure, and progressive countries in Africa. The government has a clear goal of improving the living conditions of the entire population through economic growth. The government has clear objectives: energy intensity must be reduced. Renewable energies are the key, and the aim is to reduce dependence on fossil fuels.

We are pleased to announce that, as part of this exciting initiative, the ICGSI Institute for Climate, Green Solutions and Innovation Rwanda has been added to the ECEXA environmental cluster!

The objectives of the cooperation are precisely defined and are as follows:

The promotion of sustainable development is a joint process. The approach we are pursuing together is based on the principles of innovation, networking, and environmental protection, as already successfully practiced in Austria.
